Split Double-Header with the Giants and Drop to Second.

BENTON TRIES ROLE OF THE IRON MAN

Rube Works in Both Games, but Is Not as Tough as McGinnity.

Benton allowed fourteen hits in the long afternoon of sport, and out of these were turned two earned runs. The first tally scored off him in the second game was the result of a wild throw by Arthur Fletcher, who tried to catch Jimmy Johnston at third base, but threw to the stands instead, Johnston scoring. Behind him the Giants made fifteen hits and carned all their seven runs. Had McGraw's men been able to conserve some of their energies in the first contest for consumption in the final battle Rube might have stepped up and clasped hands with Joe McGinnity, Dave Davenport and those other heroes of the iron arm.

Score Two Runs Early.

Off to a faltering start in the second game, and found for the two runs scored off him in three innings, Benton took a new lease on life, and for the remainder of the game the Robins did little with his offerings. He was in momentary difficulty in the eighth, when Daubert, Myers and Wheat singled in succession with two out, filling he bases, but Cutshaw's mightiest wing resulted in nothing more subton took a new lease on life, and for the remainder of the game the Robins did little with his offerings. He was in momentary difficulty in the eighth, when Daubert, Myers and Wheat singled in succession with two out, filing the bases, but Cutshaw's mightiest swing resulted in nothing more substantial than a weak fly to Davey Robertson, and the inning was over. By hat time, however, the damage had cen done, and with Rube Marquard whis best form, holding the Giants ir out of reach of the plate, the Giants cre unable to rally to the aid of eir hurler.

The first game was easy for Years Merkle Opposes Giants.

Fred Merkle, who for eight years were the livery of the Giants, played first in the opening game, and gathered a hit for himself, in addition to playing a bang-up game at first. Hi Myers made a great running catch on Heinie Zimmerman in the second game. He ran back almost to the centre field fence to pull down a bid for a home run by the former Cub.

hitter and Duster Mails. The last named served a nice little curve up to Artie Fletcher, who straightened it out and sent it whistling into the left field stands for a home run.

Renton Holds Robins.

While the Giants were performing all these deeds Benton was mincing daintily along in his left-handed way and holding the Robins to four hits. They climbed out of the whitewash tub in the fifth inning, when Wheat opened with a single to centre, rounded third on a drive to right by Cutshaw and scored while Mowrey and Olson were being swept away in a double killing. The only time after the fourth that Benton was in danger was in the second served and Rariden's sacrifice fly scored the first named athlete.

FIRST GAME.

Brooklyn went after Benton in the closing game. Johnston and Stengel's double singled in the first inning, and Johnston's single and Stengel's double produced the second run in the third. Johnston's single and Stengel's double produced the second run the third. The scores follow:

Casey Stengel was put out of the second game, but he left the fans aughing when he said goodby. The Jutchman doubled in the third inning. Dutchman doubled in the third inning, but was caught off second on a quick throw from Benton to Fletcher. Casey thought that he had slid around the ball and got up and proceeded to dust his uniform off. Quigley told him he was out and Casey started to talk. The more he talked the madder he became, and at last Quigley put him out of the game. Herzog added fuel to Stengel's fire by horning into the argument with many merry quips.

ar out of reach of the plate, the Giants were unable to rally to the aid of their hurler.

The first game was easy for New York. Larry Cheney was on the rubber for the Robins, but Larry is as stale as last week's bread, and only repeated his performances of the last several days. In a word, the Bartlesville Blade was knocked off the rubber in five innings, in which time four hits, a hit batter, a couple of passes and some wild pitches and passed balls gave the Giants a lead of five runs.

These were ample. Wheezer Dell replaced Cheney, and worked in style for two frames, but made way for a pinch hitter and Duster Mails. The last named served a nice little curve up to Artie Fletcher, who straightened it out and sent it whistling into the left field stands for a home run.

Tries Double Steal.

That tally, had it counted, might have caused a world of trouble, but it didn't. The nearest approach to a New York run came in the fifth inning, when Burns fell into the short throw trap and was expunged at the plate on an attempted double steal. There were some anxious moments in the eighth, too, for Herzog was on second, with two out and Zimmerman at the bat, but Rube struck Heinie out.

Great caks from little acorns grow, and out of a little slip by Olson the rally which won the first game for New York grew. With three on bases and one out, Benton hit a roller down to shortstop, which Olson juggled, when an easy double play was in sight. Ivy finally managed to make a force play on McCarty, but another run counted and two more followed before the side was retired. Right then and there Robbie led 'the Brooklyn bench brigade in singing "Aloha Ball Game."

NEWARK TRACK IS PRONOUNCED FAST

Visitors Predict That Records Will Be Broken During Competition.

Irwin Mahl, and Robert Probst, the Columbian Athletic Club of St. Louis contenders, did some short but effective training. Mahl leaped off the starting mark in several trials, but always pulled up near the 50-yard mark. Probst, after a little jogging, went a fiast quarter mile in time close to the 50 second mark.

One of the best exhibitions of the afternoon was furnished by Platt Adams, the veteran all-around athlete, of the New York Athletic Club. Finding out his ability as a high jumper at this club's members' games on last Monday, Adams tried again yesterday. He cleared the cross bar at a height of six feet one inch, and it is regretted that he is not entered in this event in the championships.
